College Enrollment Is Largest In Three Years

BJC Roundup

BOISE, IDAHO, SEPT. 30, 1949

BJC Receives Students From U.S., Alaska, Hawaii

Students from Alaska, Hawaii and all over the United States enrolled in Boise Junior college and created the largest student body in three years.

This year's freshman class is 25 percent larger than last year. Transfers and veterans increased enrollment to 682 students.

Much to the woe of enterprising males only 162 of these were women, while there were 408 males, nearly three men to every woman.

Of these students 328 were freshmen, 172 sophomores, 70 part time, 104 veterans and 112 in night school.

Represent East

Several students come from the eastern United States and the middle west, representing nearly every state from here to the Atlantic.

The West coast, as far south as the Mexican border, is well represented.

There are students from Alaska and one comes to us from Hawaii. Many are from north Idaho, which is remarkable considering their close proximity to the colleges and schools of higher education nearer to their home.

And yet this year's large enrollment has no effect on the college's friendly atmosphere. Because of the size of the college, being a small school, it creates an atmosphere that students find an aid in their work and activities.

Become Acquainted

They become easily acquainted and have little trouble becoming close friends.

They are comfortable uncrowded class rooms where the attendance seldom numbers more than 40 and enables the teacher to know the student better and the student to know the instructor, thereby creating an understanding and mutual acquaintance that is missing in larger schools.

The college welcomes the new freshman students and hopes that they will find the college a place where they can get the full value of their education.

BJC Choir Needs Additional Altos

Mr. Bratt, head of the music department and leader of our a cappella choir, has expressed satisfaction with the quality and enrollment of the choir, but, he adds, the choir needs more altos.

There is room for additional tenors and second sopranos also. Rehearsals are held at ten o'clock Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

Anyone interested is urged to contact Mr. Bratt at the auditorium for tryout. You don't have to be a music major to become a member of the choir.

Choir students have a lot of fun, as well as cultural gratification, especially on the annual spring tour, which is conducted for three reasons: First, as a reward for the many hours spent in rehearsals; second, for the entertainment of the many audiences to which they perform; and third, to recruit new students for BJC.

Plan "Bach to Boogie"

Mr. Bratt announces that tentative plans for the annual College presentation of "Bach to Boogie" are being formulated. Possibly "Bach to Boogie" will be presented at the college auditorium in an effort to reduce expenses.

regular meeting Monday, 19 prospects attended.

Those chosen will be notified this week and a smoker will be held Tuesday night at the union building, the duke said.

The Associated Women's club gave the first official tea party of the year last week in a get-together party for the sophomore and freshman girls. The sophomore ladies played "big-sister" to the freshmen and the purpose of the party was to establish an acquaintance and friendship among the girls to

AWS Entertain Little Sisters At Union Tea

A beautifully decorated centerpiece of colorful fall flowers and candle light decorated the table for the Associated Women's Tea, Thursday afternoon, September 22.

This was the first get together of all the women students this year. Each freshman girl was given a Big Sister to aid her in getting acquainted with the other students as well as the faculty.

Margaret Taylor, club president, was general hostess with Dianne Larsen, general chairman, assisting. Other people helping with the tea were:

Welcoming committee—Barbara Thurston; Barbara Crowley, Virginia Dunn, La Velle Foss, June Sawyer, Frances Tate, Joan Officer, Rexene Sproat, Carol Affleck, Dorris Allen, and Celesta Dahlberg.

Decorations—Kay Vassar, Margaret Anne Wakefield, Kathleen Jensen, Edith Little, Leanne Allen, Frances Malstrom and Ramona Gabiola.

Entertainment — DeNice Elder, Suzanne Craven, Phyllis Qualey, and Daisy Graham.

Clean up — Gail Morgan, Daisy Graham, Joan Hinricks, Joan Azcuenaga, Christine Paulson and Wilma Carter.

Mrs. Chaffee, Mrs. Hershey, Mrs. Mathews, Mrs. Stearns, Mrs. Burke, Miss Moore and Mrs. Bedford poured. Punch, coffee and cake were served.

FRESHMAN CLASS ELECTIONS

Petitions will be drawn from the main office Thursday, Oct. 6, for the freshman class elections. The qualifying candidates will be presented during an assembly Wednesday, Oct. 12, and the primary elections will be held Tuesday, Oct. 18. The two highest candidates for each office will compete in the final election Friday, Oct. 21.

National FTA Secretary Visits Eugene Chaffee Chapter at BJC

Mrs. Wilda Faust, national secretary of the Future Teachers of America, arrived from Portland by plane Friday, Sept. 23, to address the President Eugene Chaffee chapter of the FTA at Boise Junior College.

Mrs. Faust is making a nationwide tour of FTA chapters, and will go to California from here.

Mr. Dean Chatburn, head of the education department, and Dr. Morrell, education department head of Ricks College were in attendance.

Mrs. Faust was introduced to the group by Barbara Thurston, president of the BJC chapter.

In her address, Mrs. Faust pointed out how the FTA organization worked for improvements in education by constantly seeking to improve teaching conditions and attain a better selection of teachers through discouraging unsuited individuals from entering the field, and by encouraging those with genuine interest and aptitude for education.

"The FTA is the most significant thing that has happened to education since Horace Mann started the normal school," she said. "And you may quote me on this, not as my opinion alone, but the opinion of many college presidents and prominent educators throughout the country."

In addition to college chapters, the FTA sponsors clubs in high schools, where the first step is taken to weed out those unsuited and steer qualified aspirants in the right direction.

It is hoped, as the organization spreads and grows stronger, that eventually only the nation's finest young people will enter education, Mrs. Faust said.

The BJC chapter was organized in 1937 and there are three college chapters in Idaho at present. The North West Nazarene college, Ricks college and BJC. BJC has been on the honor roll the last two years for having an outstanding chapter.

IRC to Hold Contest Final

The finals of the oratorical contest on foreign affairs promoted by the International Relations Club will be held at the student assembly Wednesday, November 23.

Preliminaries will be held and the number of contestants will be reduced to four. These speakers will compete for the Bob Fifer prizes of $15, $10, and $5.

The students may pick their own subjects from such topics as the Marshall Plan, the Atlantic Pact, the Union of the Western European Nations, the Present Struggle in China, England's Dollar Crisis, etc.

The contest has two objectives: one, to give BJC students experience in public speaking and, two, to present to the students facts about world problems.

Harold Wennstrom MC At First Dance

Mr. Harold Wennstrom acted as master of ceremonies at the annual all school mixer Friday evening following the Yakima-Boise Junior college football game.

Mr. Wennstrom introduced several mixer dances and a blindfold jitterbug contest which was won by Betty Wade and DeWayne Bills, who received Benny Goodman record albums.

Special guests were the Yakima Junior college football team and Hugh Joslyn's orchestra provided music for the several hundred students attending.

speech department is giving full cooperation in helping carry through the project. He will assist in locating contestants, will train those trying out for the prizes and will help with the details of the programs.

DeltaPsiOmega To Take Part In Radio Show

The Delta Psi Omega held their second meeting of the year Tuesday at Mr. Wennstrom's office in the auditorium, Barbara Thurston, chairman, announced. Meetings will be held hereafter every Tuesday noon on the auditorium stage.

Joseph, Mode hairdresser, has invited the organization to his radio program Monday at 3 p.m. where he will give instruction on stage make-up.

Miss Thurston said it was decided that ten students from the college will appear on the program and ten persons from the high school will be invited to sit in the audience.

Those to be on the program from the college are: Barbara Thurston, Dona Johnson, Gail Morgan, Diane Larson, Ida Rodgers, Bill Johnston, Beryl Carringer and four interested dramatic students will be invited.

I.K. Notes

The Intercollegiate Knights, leading men's organization on the Boise Junior college campus, have moved along at a furious clip the past two weeks to get student activities in order, Fred Biggs, duke, announced.

The Knights put the finishing touches on their outdoor fireplace project this week and are now in the midst of completing the student directory and lining out their pledge program.

Every year the Knights put out a student directory, a small booklet listing each student's name, address and telephone number. The directory also gives useful information about the faculty and the college.

Fred said they plan to have the booklet published early in November.

The pledge program is coming along as good or better than expected, Biggs reported. In their

Book Line Headaches

It would be wonderful to have a self service device to obtain needed books instead of standing in line for several hours to have a door shut in your face just as you were nearing the front of the line. All you would have to do is walk to the book you want, deposit your money and walk away with the book, nice, huh!

Anyway its fun to do a little wishful thinking once in awhile. However, it will be a cold day in hades and people will probably be taking pills for such things as math, language, history, etc.

Every student taking a course at college must have thought of some such thing not so very long ago as they stood in line for many an hour to get even a single book. And those students who had the door slammed in their faces are probably already attempting to draw up the plans for such a device.

This trying to get books at the beginning of the semester is getting to be a pain in the neck and something should be done to solve the problem. "Rigor Mortis" could easily set in before a student gets anywhere in the book lines.

Standing in line wouldn't be quite the task that it is if some students would stop giving their lists to their friends to get. This just makes the problem more complex and especially when those "happy-go-lucky" people get the brilliant idea to start up a second line just so they head the line.

It also presents a problem for the newcomer—which line should he get in. However, certain people just never read Emily Post, so they just don't have the manners of a college student.

But then there is some good from it. Just think that the sophs will have plenty of training for standing in line when and if you are able to make it to a higher institution of learning. And for the frosh, well they will at least know what to expect next year.

But let's hope, for the frosh, that someone can dream up a solution to the problem before next year and preferably before next semester.

WSF Campaign Begins

Perhaps one of the most worthy organizations on the Boise Junior college campus today is the World Student Service Fund.

The BJC chapter represents only a small part of this vast international organization, which campaigns annually at the colleges to raise funds for the needy and underprivileged students in Europe and Asia.

We, as an education minded people, can realize what it must mean to a boy in Europe when he is offered the chance to go back to school, and once more begin to live like a human being. He may have been a great scholar at one time, but suddenly, through no fault of his own, was cast into a state of poverty.

The WSSF, of course, cannot hope to eliminate all the suffering, but during the past years they have relieved many, and thousands of students regained the chances which were snatched away from them at the outbreak of the war.

The campaign will begin on our campus Oct. 24 and the group has scheduled several social events to raise their share of the funds. The first dance is set for an indefinite date later in the month.

President Sylvia Cusick of the BJC chapter has arranged for members to take collections in the hall.

We do not ask you to give more than you can afford, but it will be appreciated by a homeless refugee if we short ourself one bottle of coke and help him to obtain a diploma.

Gossip & Gags

The most popular man of the week seems to be none other than Larry Trimble. Why is he so popular?

Conversation around the union leads us to believe in the affirmative.

Someone told Rosy Pulliam: "You should send Mr. Trimble home earlier."

Another asked Virginia Oliason: "What's between you and Larry?" Virginia's reply: "Nothing, darn it."

Overheard at the union: (Referring to a group of girls having a cornfest at the corner table.) "How can they look so clean and laugh so dirty."

Whisperings of sweet nothings soared to an all time high during the summer vacation and now we find a number of the one-time eligible coeds supporting a rock on the third fingers of their left hand.

Among the bashful blushing are: Mary Beal—our favorite office employee. She has promised to take the vows with a last year's graduate of BJC — Mrs. Root's young son, George, who is now attending the University of Idaho.

Virginia Dunn is also flashing a shiny finger and referring to Fred Biggs as "My Man."

One of the latest fads on the campus today is speaking French with a German accent.

What Is Your Type?

By Dave Hughes

Are you a coffee addict?

From morn till night you see eager students gather at the Union to indulge in the growing addiction of coffee drinking. During the first five days of school, twenty-four pounds of coffee were consumed on the BJC premises—a total of nearly five pounds of coffee a day. In the course of a year, a total of one hundred eighty pounds will be consumed. Amazing, isn't it?

Now in our category of coffee drinkers there are several distinct types.

THE SOPHISTICATED TYPE: He or she drinks their coffee with their mind on the observable eye of the prominent persons they wish to meet or wish to pattern their lives after. Delicately they hold their cups like a new baby—afraid it will break or slobber on them.

THE HILL-BILLY TYPE: He is used to drinking his coffee out of a can that he hasn't yet learned the use of the cup. First he must saturate his whiskers (which he used as a whisker tonic) and just at the time it reaches his lips, he discovers the cup is empty.

THE BAR-FLY TYPE: He is so used to having his coffee spiked that he doesn't know whether he feels the effect or not. Anyway, he can't remember whether it was spiked or not (owing from the night before) so he pretends like it is.

THE ALARM CLOCK TYPE: They come in in the early morning, hair uncombed, knuckling the sleep from their eyes, and are not ready for the day's business (whatever it may be) until they have gorged themselves on coffee. Then they are ready to assume the responsibilities of the day's classes.

So ends our major types of coffee addicts. If you fall in one of these categories, don't feel too down hearted, as THERE'S STILL PLENTY OF COFFEE IN BRAZIL.

Talent Show Set Wednesday

A talent show is scheduled for the next assembly, Wednesday at the Boise Junior college auditorium.

Assemblies already fill this year's school calendar to the halfway mark. The new student council has begun plans to initiate the better assembly program promised to last year's voters by By Erstad, student body president.

Mr. Roy Schwartz, faculty advisor, Pat Pond, and Dick Black were designated by the council as the committee to forward the two semester projects.

The committee has observed much potential new talent among this year's freshman enrollment. Consequently a meeting is scheduled Monday noon for these and all equally talented sophomores newly spotted this year, and remembered from last.

All the students who want to enjoy participating in the many music, dramatic, dancing, and speech activities possible at the college every year should take advantage of this opportunity to be "discovered."

Talented entertainers are always in popular demand at BJC. The annual Bach to Boogie show is only one of the many occasions you'll have to join in the fun of a good musical comedy.

COLLEGE STUDENTS VISIT CHILDREN

First and second graders at Central school have eight new feminine additions to their class from the sophomore class at Boise Junior College.

Joan Henricks, from the education department, said, it is an excellent refresher course, but confesses that is not really the reason they're attending the class.

Each Tuesday and Thursday from 8 to 12 a.m., the girls observe the youngsters at their work and play and are gaining practical experience in the art of teaching.

The girls include: Celeste Dahlberg, Virginia Dunn, Diane Larson, Leanne Allen, Carmelyn McElhannon, Kathleen Jensen, Joan Henricks, and Doris Ashton.

Convalescent Spends Last Months at College

By Fred Biggs

Perhaps the hardest thing I have ever done was entering the family of a close friend who had recently passed.

Charles Devine, student at Boise Junior college last year while convalescing, finally reached the end of the road during the summer, and it became my duty to pay a visit to his wife.

The door opened and I stepped into the living room of a comfortable home on the Bench. A fire burned cozily in the fireplace and a little more at ease about the task I was about to undertake. The lady who let me in excused me for chasing two young "pajamas" back to their room.

While she was gone I glanced into the room. My eyes immediately came to rest on a picture on the mantelpiece portraying the smiling face of a handsome, husky young man dressed in an army uniform with the silver oak leaves of a lieutenant colonel on his shoulders. I stared at the picture for a moment. The smiling face was replaced by a vision of a man I had known at BJC, a vision of gray sunken cheeks and hollow eyes. I could not believe my eyes. This was not a picture of the Charles Devine I had known. But when his wife came back, she assured me that it was and told me his name.

Andy," as most people knew him, was born in New York 40 years ago. He was a strong athlete, with a keen mind and a sense of humor.

His chief ambition was to go to college and he worked his way through Yale as a theology major. However, he did not enter the ministry when he left college, but went to work for an eastern hardware firm. Andy worked hard and climbed up the ladder, but at the height of the depression, he was struggling in an attempt to enter the Point, he enlisted in the army as a private and in the mid-1940s he was sent to the Hawaiian Islands.

During his service in Hawaii, he met a nurse, who later became his wife. Andy proved his devotion to the young lady by walking 17 miles in his base to Honolulu several times, just to see her, a test of the few men perform.

In 1938 he completed his enlistment as a master sergeant. The following year he stayed in Hawaii as a civilian and then re-enlisted in the army with a second lieutenant's commission in the air force. Andy was in Pearl Harbor when the Japanese made their brutal attack in December, 1941, and he served in the Pacific area throughout the remainder of the war.

He received two purple hearts and with a splendid war record to his credit, he retired from the army with the permanent rank of major.

Andy planned to go back to work with the company he had been with before his army career, but suddenly he was at war again. This time with a parasite microbe that had entered his body while in the Pacific.

It was a long, hard struggle, the insurmountable odds seeming to negate the greatest efforts of some of the best medical men.

In an attempt to keep his mind busy, Andy came to BJC, attended the football games. His indomitable will to live prolonged his stay, but last summer, clinging to that last thread of hope, he went to California for an operation.

He knew at that time, that this was the end, but now he accepted. In his last letter to his wife he quoted these words from Tennyson:

The old order changeth, yielding place to new,
And God fulfills himself in many ways,
Lest one good custom should corrupt the world.

Comfort thyself: what comfort is in me?
I have lived my life, and that which I have done
May He within himself make pure! but thou,
If thou shouldst never see my face again,
Pray for my soul. More things are wrought by prayer
Than this world dreams of.

Wherefore, let thy voice
Rise like a fountain for me night and day.
For what are men better than sheep or goats
That nourish a blind life within the brain,
If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer
Both for themselves and those who call them friend?
For so the whole round earth is every way
Bound by gold chains about the feet of God.

But now farewell. I am going a long way . . .

B-Cube Club Elects Officers at Meeting

The B-Cubes elected their officers at their last meeting. They are the following: President, Betsy Hall; vice president, Pat Trask; secretary, Janet Langrell; and sophomore representative, Margaret Wakefield.

Handling concessions and selling programs will be the job of the B-Cubes at all the games this season.

Pi Sigma Sigma Eager to Take New Members

Pi Sigma Sigma, the new men's organization on the campus, began functioning soon after the opening day of school. With eager hearts and alert brains the members started looking around for projects which would gladden the soul of our alma mater.

After the first two meetings they decided to concentrate on new pledges. Lucky fellows who are eligible for membership in this up and coming organization need only have a C average. There is more to it than just scholastic averages, though. They say that one needs to have a genuine interest, in actually being of some service to the school and in having some fun on the side. (And who among the male population of this school is not interested in that? At least in having fun with the work.)

This nosey newser found that any freshman boy who might like to join could do so by following simple directions. Jake Peterson, the president of this new organization, emphasized that only a limited number of new pledges would be admitted and that if anyone is interested they should contact him, Earl Rose, Kieth Higgenson, or Mr. Gilligan the club's advisor. If you are unacquainted with any of these people you can easily locate one of them by addressing inquiries to almost any sophomore.

This club was formed last year as a solution to the problem of finding enough organized activity on the campus for men. With the exception of the athletic clubs there was only one other club for men on the campus. Out of town

Vic Vet Advises

Veterans should check their GI insurance from time to time to make certain their policies do what they intend them to do, the Veterans Administration advises.

Changing circumstances in a veteran's life may dictate certain changes in his insurance program, the VA said, pointing out three main items to be watched.

First, a veteran should check the amount of insurance he is carrying. He may not need to carry the full $10,000 the law allows. On the other hand, if he is carrying less than the full amount and can afford more, he may want to increase his insurance coverage.

Second, he should check the type of insurance he is carrying. Besides term insurance, a veteran may choose any one of six permanent plans, or any combination of them.

Third, he should decide who is to get his insurance money and how it is to be paid. A veteran may designate anyone as a beneficiary, or name more than one if he chooses. He may also change beneficiaries at any time. Insurance benefits may be paid under any one or a combination of four different plans.

Veterans may obtain full information on all GI insurance matters at their nearest VA office.

Question of the Week

Q. How do I go about applying for my GI insurance dividend which I understand the VA is about to pay?

A. Get an application form at your post office, your nearest VA office or your veterans service organization. Fill it out accurately and mail it to the VA. Your service serial number is the most important item on the form, so check it carefully. Be sure you sign it, and don't send more than one application.

MASS GROUP HOLDS OPENING PEP RALLY

Students and instructors "skipped" classes last Friday morning and gathered on the steps of the administration building for a preview and introduction of cheer leader tryouts.

The college band played some typical "football music" and short talks were given by Bronco Coach Lyle Smith and Dick Black.

The coach expressed his opinion on the football game to be played that evening with Yakima and Dick gave the season's opening pep talk.

Trying out to be official cheer leaders for the year were Don Urry, Jack Mott, Marvin Gardner, Milas Hinshaw, Jim Ponzette, Edith Little, Pat Dyson, Virginia Oliason, Carolyn Gruger and Joan Edwards. Other candidates not present are Jerry Hill and Joe Candell.

Broncos Take 44-7 Victory In Season Opener

Boise Defeats Yakima in First Game of Year

The Broncos started the grid season off with a bang to wallop Yakima Junior college Indians, 44-7, in the opening game on the home field.

The Broncos had an easy time with the invaders, scoring in every period, while the Indians were only able to reach pay territory in the first quarter.

Although showing command throughout the game, the home squad proved to be a much stronger team in the third quarter when they pushed across for three touchdowns.

Boise had the advantage in weight which accounted for explosive runs combined with an aerial attack to make long yardage gains at almost every stage of the contest.

Only in the first quarter were the Indians able to give the Broncos a battle. After the beginning of the second period, the game became an obviously one-sided affair.

Bill Moore ran a cutback over right tackle, broke into the clear, and bounded 23 yards for the first tally of the game. The attempted conversion was low to put the Broncos in the lead, 6-0.

A few plays later, Yakima took over the lead when ace Indian halfback struck back with 45 yards of pay dirt and Jim Scott converted.

BJC rallied in the second quarter with touchdowns by Earl Williams and Ed Troxel and a conversion point by Williams to stand way out in front at the half, 20-7.

Troxel and Williams scored again in the third period, Troxel

Bronco starters in last week's game with Yakima Junior College and expecting to begin the "rough stuff" in tonight's game against Northern Idaho College of Education pose for the cameraman on the Boise Junior college field. The home team is aiming at another unbeaten schedule after emerging from the last two seasons un-

on an 18-yard run around right end and Williams plunged two yards across the line after a 40-yard drive.

Dick Bader climaxed the third quarter on a 45-yard dash on an off tackle plunge.

Larry Jackson and Bob Church took the honors in the fourth period with a Jackson to Church aerial combination for the final tally.

Outstanding line play was performed by Jim Sponsler, guard; Allan Jackson, end and Dudley Montrose, tackle.

Coach Lyle Smith will leave with his squad today to invade the ranks of the Northern Idaho College of Education at Lewiston which, he believes, will be a more difficult game.

Sideline Opinion

By Carl Hamilton

Coach Lyle Smith proved himself to be a man of his word when he said, "We'll win some ball games," because that's exactly what he and the team did. Forty-four to nine, the 22nd straight victory for our football team and our school.

He also said, "We'll need the support of the entire student body." We are wondering if he didn't mean more than the attendance and participation in the yells and school songs.

When asked how much it costs to train a football team for our's and the general public's enjoyment, Mr. Smith said, "It costs $70.00 for each player's uniform."

By multiplying the cost of each player's uniform by 67 (the number of uniforms issued this fall) we see that uniforms alone, cost $4,690.00. That is not to say that 67 new uniforms are purchased each year, but football uniforms, as well as the fillings, take a terrific beating and are in constant need of repair or replacement.

The entire cost of maintaining our football team isn't in the uniforms alone. Footballs, training aids, maintenance and upkeep of the practice field and stadium, the additional expense of "out of town games" for transportation, rooms and meals, and the salaries of our capable coaches make every game an expensive venture.

The athletic department is financed by ticket sales and appropriations from the student council. If ticket sales don't total enough to meet costs, the rest must come from the student council.

We believe every student can help, not only by attending our athletic activities, but by trying to boost our ticket sales. The athletic department doesn't charge an admission fee for attending baseball or track. Therefore, it must depend on football and basketball games to meet expenses.

We hear that a boxing tournament is being planned for next spring, which, with the proper publicity and support, should net a neat profit.

For every "paying spectator" that a student influences to attend he can rightfully feel that he is contributing to the ultimate goal of the athletic department of making itself self-supporting through paid attendance.

Coach Smith believes that the athletic department CAN finance itself, through paid attendance alone, and, possibly, contribute to the student fund, "if" our athletes can consistently perform to "sell-out" houses. To do this must encourage the townspeople of Boise and vicinity to seek entertainment at our games.

Pantry Cafeteria, Inc. Columbus, Ohio

One of the favorite off-campus gathering spots at the Ohio State University is the Pantry Cafeteria, Inc. At the Pantry, as in college shops everywhere, ice-cold Coca-Cola is always on hand to complete the enjoyment of a between-classes pause or an afternoon date. As an important part of student life—Coke belongs.
